Please be as precise as possible.	Traffic in this area is some of the worst in Wigan and Salford. When leaving towards the M60 anti clockwise it takes roughly 25 mins to get from the spar shop to the traffic light on east lincs. Then it's a further 45 mins to get from those lights through boothstow to the M60. That's on a relatively good day. I've had times where it takes an hour and half. Opting to go down the east lincs instead and turn into Worsley is disastrous. The traffic was bad enough when we moved here 8 years ago and since then thousands of houses have been added to the area. When is it going to be enough? When are more roads going to be added to help with the situation and misery that people are already in? Anyone that is willing to let this plan go ahead needs to spend a week living in Mosley common and they will realise that it's a very very bad idea.
